

Orphans and Vulnerable Children

HIV disease has robbed millions of children of the opportunity to be just a child and enjoy the love of parents, the happiness of playing with friends, the chance to attend school. Programs providing bereavement support, school scholarships, books to improve literacy, psychosocial support, livelihood and vocational skills cannot replace what these children have lost, but make an enormous difference in equipping them for a healthy future.

Micro Enterprise

Income generating projects conducted by individuals, patient associations and support groups provide income for HIV impacted families so they can purchase food and other necessities. Structured so they are self-sustaining, these projects provide long-term solutions for HIV impacted children and families CAFI supports fish ponds; cooperative gardens; poultry and pig raising, paper bead, and mushroom projects.

Family-Centered Care and Treatment

A diagnosis of HIV impacts an entire family, infected and affected alike. The best possible health outcomes for all are accomplished by treating the family as a unit providing treatment and care in the context of knowledge of all family members' HIV status, counseling for prevention for discordant couples, support for disclosure, and ongoing education for all family members. This continuity of care helps ensure that the needs of all family members are addressed.
